

CITY WINS C.P.R. APPEAL AGAINST ASSESSMENT

Mr. Alex. Knox's Appeal Against Entire Assessment was Dismissed, but Appeal Against His Own Business Assessment was Allowed. Star Store Appeal Dismissed. In Nearly Every Case Land Assessment was Confirmed, While Slight Adjustments Were Made in Assessment of Buildings.

The appeals from the court of revision on the assessment for the year 1922, were heard before His Honor Judge Lewis last week. The most important case was the appeal by the Canadian Pacific Railway company from their land assessment. These lands were assessed by the City at approximately $120,000.00, and this assessment was confirmed by the Judge. Mr. Clapperton, of Calgary, appeared for the railway company and Mr. C. H. Russell for the city.

The appeal of Mr. Alexander Knox against the whole assessment was dismissed with costs.

About seven or eight assessments of land and buildings were complained of. In nearly every case the land assessment was confirmed. In a few cases slight reductions were made in the assessment of buildings.

The appeal of Mr. Alexander Knox against the assessment of the Star Store building and against the land assessment of Messrs. Montgomery Bros., Ltd. was dismissed.

ALL FORD PLANTS TO BE SHUT DOWN

Detroit, Aug. 27.—One hundred and five thousand employees of the Ford Motor company throughout the country will be without jobs after September 1st. In addition several hundred thousand other workers employed in industries furnishing materials for the Ford plants will be affected.

Henry Ford gave these figures on Saturday in announcing that his three big motor plants located in Detroit and his assembling plants throughout the country would close at that date because of the coal shortage.

The announcement was the most severe blow that industrial Detroit has met since the closing of the automobile industry of two years ago. It means, according to Mr. Ford, that 75,000 men employed in the Highland Park, River Rouge and Dearborn plants, the company here will be without work. Thirty thousand others now working in the various assembling plants scattered throughout the country also will be thrown out of work.

How long the machinery in the Ford plant will be still will depend entirely upon the coal supply of the future, the Detroit manufacturer said.

The price of steel and other materials entered into the decision to suspend operations, Mr. Ford said, adding that he had received notice in advance of steel prices, to be made shortly.

Special Harvest Rate Extended For Ten Days

Winnipeg, Aug. 25.—Cooperating with the employment service of Canada in its efforts to overcome the shortage of harvesters in western Canada due to the phenomenal size of the 1922 crop, the railways have granted an extension of the special harvest excursion rates until September 2, ten days beyond the regular expiration date, which was Wednesday. A system has been evolved whereby the branches of the employment service in eastern Canada will issue certificates to those men who are desirous of going west to the harvest fields and the railways upon the production of these certificates will sell tickets at the reduced rate to the harvesters.

MOTOR BANDITS IN A BIG BANK ROBBERY AT FOREMOST, ALTA.

Lethbridge, Aug. 29.—The Union bank at Foremost, on the Lethbridge-Weyburn branch of the Canadian Pacific, was robbed by motor bandits at 2 o'clock this morning. They bound and gagged the clerks sleeping in the rooms above the bank. After making the Junior clerk open the outer door of the vault they blew the inner door and got away with $12,000 cash and $70,000 in negotiable securities. The bandits cut the wires leading from the town and blocked the roads. Five men were in the bandit party. The Alberta provincial police under Inspector Barvin here are working on the case.

Millions Pour Into The Treasury From Stamp Tax

Ottawa, Aug. 30.—The new stamp tax, combined with the sales tax, continues to demonstrate it is a money maker for the public treasury, as at the end of the month the receipts from these sources promise to be near the fifty million mark, about two-thirds of it resulting from the stamp tax and the remainder from the sales excise.

Up to July 20, the receipts under this heading were $22,000,000, including the sales tax and the modified stamp tax as in force in the last few years. The new excise of stamp tax was added in force on August 1, and up to the 20th inst. the revenue from this and the sales tax together was $23,000,000, an increase of eleven million. The returns are regarded as propitious in that this is not the least month for commercial transactions.

DECREASE IN ATTENDANCE AT THE THEATRES

Edmonton, Aug. 28.—Attendance at the theatres has been falling off this year, and this is especially true of the picture shows in the province. Premier Greenfield has pointed out that the same condition exists all over the province.

The United States returns show a falling off of a million and a half both May and June of this year compared with the same months last year. (In Alberta, the amount collected in theatre tax has been about the same as last year, which, considering the increased rate this year, would show a decrease in attendance.)

About $50,000 was collected last year up to this time, and a similar amount has been received this year. The big attendance at the circus shows up in the general receipts considerably. In addition to the falling off in attendance at the picture shows there was also a smaller attendance at the Chateaus throughout the province this year. There were 111 picture shows licensed in Alberta last year as compared with 96 this year, a drop of 15. There will be about the same number of automobiles on the roads given out this year, and to date there has been about the same revenue from companies.

Alberta Free From Labor Wars Of Any Description

The dwelling house of Mr. Flostman living northeast of Claresholm, was set on fire by lightning and totally destroyed by fire. Mr. Flostman was away from home at the time and Mrs. Flostman was putting the children to bed. When the lightning struck the house it started the mother and she revived the whole of the upper part of the house was in flames. After a very hard struggle she succeeded in saving the four children, the youngest being five weeks old. The mother, carrying the baby and the children, started for a neighbor's, about half a mile away in the direction of the house. When she arrived the mother and children in night clothes were almost perished. It is a miracle how the mother got the children out alive as she had not altogether revived from the shock at this time.

OBITUARY

AUGUST FERDINAND WITZKE

Three passed away on Wednesday of last week, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Julius Schmold, south of the city, August Ferdinand Witzke at the age of eighty years. He was born in West Prussia, Germany, on December 25th, 1842, and emigrated to America in the year 1892. Since coming to this country he has resided in different places. He was a homesteader in the Wetsaskiwin district for eight years, and he also farmed in the vicinity of Bashaw for some years later, and taking up his residence with his daughter, Mrs. J. Schmold, and one son, Fred Witzke, of the Bashaw district, twenty grand children and five great grand children. The remains were laid to rest in the cemetery at Pleasant Prairie on Saturday afternoon, the services being conducted by Rev. C. H. Thies.

MANY CHANGES IN LAW OF HUNTING THE ELUSIVE DUCK

SHOOTING BEGINS IN ALBERTA TOMORROW, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER FIRST

A number of very important changes in the law governing hunting of the game birds this season are worthy of special notice by sportsmen. Chief among these is the following: "No person or persons shall kill or traffic in the flesh of any big game or waterfowl." This totally bans hotel keepers and others from placing the "loot cut in two." A number of people for guests and will be able to keep on enjoying sport in the future.

Game birds must not be placed in cold storage before September 20th, and the bag limit for ducks is now set at a total of 30 for the season. It is now unlawful to carry a loaded shotgun or rifle in, or on, any vehicle upon a public highway, and hunters guilty of discharging a gun, or of firing from a vehicle upon a public highway are now liable to a very heavy fine.

"Ducks, chickens and partridge are now plentiful this year throughout Alberta. Shooting will be very difficult north and east of Calgary, as the dry weather has dried up most of the small sloughs. This has caused the ducks to concentrate on the larger bodies of water and it may be difficult to keep them moving.

Grave danger exists that young hunters may be tempted to use a .22 calibre rifle, a very general receipt, as a very dangerous practice. A bullet striking the water far out will ricochet and endanger lives of other hunters hidden on the far side of the lake.

The price of a game bird license for residents remains the same, $2.50 for the season, but sportsmen will welcome the tidings that the cost of loaded shells has been decreased by 10 per cent.

AUTOMOBILE LICENSES WILL BE CUT IN TWO AFTER OCTOBER FIRST

Edmonton, Aug. 29.—Beginning the first of October, the amount of the provincial license for the operation of automobiles in this province will be cut in two. A number of people have thought that the half rate began the first of September, but information from the provincial secretary indicates that the full rate is to be paid until the first of October.

FROST DANGER IS AGAIN AVERTED

Monday night in Wetsaskiwin was clear and cool, but there was no frost, the lowest official reading being 40. The weather throughout the west was generally cool and several places on the north edge of the province were experiencing their first taste of winter. Stetler and Lloydminster reported 35 while Coram, Kamusk, Vegreville and Ross were just two degrees warmer.

CHILEAN VESSEL LOST ALL HANDS GO DOWN

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 29.—The Chilean steamship Talca, 2,300 tons, today sank off the Chilean coast near Coquimbo. All the passengers numbered 150 and the crew of 72 were lost. Coquimbo is about 250 miles north of Valparaiso.

CORRECTION

The Canmore Canadian, in its last issue, says: "The 1922 rail rate for the city of Wetsaskiwin is 31 1/2." The rates are: Public school support, $9.45; and Separate school support, $2.45; but here in Wetsaskiwin we are fortunate in having in arriving at the amount of taxes to be paid. Perhaps the Canmore would like to have a higher rate here than in their own town.

CREE INDIANS WOULD WELCOME BYNG AS CHIEF

His Excellency Lord Byng may be a full fledged Indian chief when he leaves Edmonton next month on his return trip to Ottawa. It was learned on Tuesday that Cree Indians, who are coming here from the Holmbro reserve, are proposing to confer the highest gift in their country on the distinguished visitor where he arrives here, according to the tribal custom.

Chief Simpson has already proposed this honor, according to J. Prost, of the Hudson's Bay company, who has just returned from a trip to the reserve. The ceremony would take place as a preliminary to the sports which the city is arranging for.

Ponoka Fair Was One of Most Successful Shows in The Past Eighteen Years

One of the most successful fairs of the season was held at Ponoka on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week when the agricultural society staged their eighteenth annual exhibition on the fair grounds about a mile south of town. The fair was an unqualified success from every point of view, quantity and quality of exhibits, manner and enthusiasm of visitors, and last but by no means least, the ideal weather conditions that prevailed on both days of the exhibition.

It would have been considered satisfactory in a much more favorable season than the present one, and directors, exhibitors, farmers and townspeople were all to be heartily congratulated on the very fine showing made at a time when successful fairs can only be accomplished by the exercise of the greatest skill and administrative ability. But the ladies and gentlemen who control the destinies of the Ponoka exhibition were determined that untoward conditions would be met and that nothing would be allowed to mar the success of the exhibition of 1922.

The result has fully justified their expectations in every department. There was a large attendance on both days and the fair notwithstanding the fact that harvesting operations are general throughout the entire district. The number and quality of the exhibits would do credit to any fair in the province. The live stock section was particularly good, especially the cattle, which were so numerous that the Judge, Mr. C. Weir, was kept busy from early morning until an advanced hour in the evening. Mr. Weir expressed himself highly pleased with the quality of the animals brought before him, especially the cowboys, who he considered the outstanding feature of the cattle section.—Hulletin.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Dolt announce the engagement of their daughter, Ellen Dolt, to N. E. Simpson, of Los Angeles, California, the marriage to take place in Edmonton, early in September.

The bridesmaids will be picked to break through a concrete barrier which has sealed the heart of the Argonauts since from the time of the war, other miners sought to make a possible channel of escape for their trapped comrades. It was a slim hope.

A portion of the main shaft below the 2700 foot level had caved in, and workmen could remain at the 2400 foot level to fight the flames only a few minutes at a time. The trapped men are believed to be on the 4500 foot level and lower levels.

KING EDWARD SCHOOL

INSTRUCTIONS IN CONNECTION WITH OPENING SCHOOLS

On the eve of the opening of the public schools, writing has been issued by the chief executive of the board of health, Dr. T. H. Whitehead, with regard to infectious diseases. Dr. Whitehead's notice is as follows:

Following its usual course infectious disease in our cities which was unusually prevalent during the winter months, has gradually declined as warmer weather came on, and has now during the month of August reached the lowest incidence known for some time. The opening of our schools in September and the advent of cooler weather, brings about inevitably opportunities for acquiring infections of various kinds which are unavoidable. In order to reduce to the minimum, the possibilities of our children contracting infectious disease to which they may be susceptible, it is necessary that all parents and guardians should realize their personal responsibility and moral obligation, to prevent as far as possible, their children from being a source of danger to others.

The following instructions are therefore given regarding the opening of schools in September.

1—No child shall attend school from any home where there is any illness until a certificate is obtained from the family physician or health officer that the illness is non-contagious.

2—No child should be sent to school who shows any indication whatever of not being in the normal state of health. Such cases should at once be referred to the family physician, the medical officer of health or the physicians of the school board, and not be sent to school until it is ascertained that the indisposition is only temporary and non-infectious.

3—Mild cases of scarlet fever or diphtheria are the most dangerous from the public health standpoint as they are apt to be unnoticed or disregarded. In all suspicious cases, a physician should be called at once or the case reported to the health department. In this respect, all school children in the family in the meantime, to be kept home from school, pending the result of the investigation.

4—All quarantine regulations must be strictly observed as any failure in this respect renders the household liable to prosecution. Any infraction of quarantine should be promptly reported to the health department.

5—An official of the department will, without disclosing the source of the information, investigate and take any steps which may be necessary to enforce the quarantine rules.

6—It is the interest of the family as well as the public interest, it is advisable to call a physician at the onset of any variation from the normal health condition of any member of the family, particularly of the children, who are more liable to contract the ordinary infectious diseases.

The most reliable physician to call is one who promptly reports to the health department all cases coming under his observation, and any physician failing to do this is liable to prosecution.—Bulletin.

DISMAL OUTLOOK AS NINTH WEEK OF STRIKE OPENS
Chicago, Aug. 28.—The ninth week of the rail strike began with peace negotiations collapsed. President Harding considering steps to place certain roads and anthracite coal mines under federal control, train wrecks, and further trouble with train crews, notably on the Chicago and Alton.

Walkouts of the C. & A. followed explosions at Roadhouse, Ill., operating crews at Roadhouse and Slater, Mo., refusing to turn a wheel because of the presence of guards there.

Mobile and Ohio railroad officials were investigating last night's wreck of a passenger train at Whittier, Ala. in which several persons were injured. The engine and seven coaches left the track when the train hit a half open switch.

Government Marketing Scheme
Marketing of seed grain on an extensive scale, and in accordance with a plan which will seek to encourage the production of pure seed in the province, will be undertaken by the provincial department of agriculture as a result of arrangements completed by officials of the department, and which have been given the official approval of Hon. George Howland, minister of agriculture. The announcement of the new scheme was made by H. A. Craig, deputy minister, this week.

The new marketing plan involves not only the distribution of seed for production purposes as formerly, but contemplates also the establishment of a cleaning and grading plant at Edmonton, through which all seed grain to be marketed under the new plan will be handled, and further provides for the advancement to the farmers on consignments of seed grain to the government plant, of 50 per cent of the commercial elevator price, with a certificate covering the balance. The seed will be sold to the best possible advantage, and the balance, after expenses are deducted, will be paid to the growers. It is not the desire, however, that exorbitant prices be paid for the seed, but that a reasonable premium be obtained.

It is anticipated that 100,000 bushels of seed grain of all varieties will be handled under the new scheme this year. The handling and marketing is to be under the supervision of the field crops branch of the provincial department of agriculture, over which W. J. Stephens, crops commissioner, presides.

The department's aid and plan for production purposes will continue to be undertaken by the field crops branch of the university of Alberta, under Prof. Carter, in cooperation with the field crops branch of the government.

The department, however, undertakes to be responsible for the quality of the seed supplied to these farmers, no matter from what source it may come.

The field crops branch of the department of agriculture will inspect the growing grain produced from the registered seed supplied. Any farmer who can satisfy the crops commissioner that he is growing seed grain that can be registered, and can pass inspection of the commissioner, will have the opportunity of marketing his seed under the new government plan.

Government Exhibit
It has been decided that the Alberta government exhibit now being prepared for the international department will be sent in September to the Midland Empire fair at Billings, Montana, and to the state fair of Colorado at Pueblo. Uncertainty of the situation in connection with the present railway strike in the States has made necessary the cancelling of the plan which had also been made to send the exhibit to fairs in South Dakota and Iowa.

Clean Threshing Machines
Attention of threshermen throughout the province is called to the clauses in the Noxious Weeds act which require them to clean their threshing machines before leaving one farm for another. The weed branch of the department of agriculture issues a special appeal to owners and operators of threshing machines to see that their machines are properly cleaned before leaving the farm on which they are operating, and also to see that light bottoms are used on the bundle racks, so that these are swept off before moving to another farm.

New Fire District
Under the practice fire ordinance, a fire district has been created in the following: North and west of a line starting at the point where the North Saskatchewan river intersects the fourth meridian, thence up stream to Edmonton, thence south along the C.P.R. to Calgary and thence, thence south between ranges 25 and 26 to the international boundary. Regulations controlling the starting of fires in the fire area have been issued, requiring permits to be obtained to start fires within the district. Circulars have been issued by the provincial fire guardians urging the public to observe these regulations.

Revenue from Theatres
Revenue from theatre tax in the province has been falling off this year, indicating a falling off in attendance. A total of 36 picture shows are licensed in the province this year, in comparison to 111 last year.

Wheat at Calgary Elevator
First samples of wheat being received at the dominion government elevator at Calgary are grading No. 1 hard and No. 1 Northern. Several carloads of wheat have already been marketed.

The cigarette has a very injurious effect upon the heart. It causes the organs to beat unevenly and makes it hard for a person to walk quickly for a long distance.

Upon the lungs and nostrils the cigarette has a very bad effect. It makes the lungs weak and thus it is very hard for a person to breathe. Instead of all the impure air coming out, the dirt from the cigarette sticks to the fine hairs in the nostrils and thus it is again breathed into the system.

The cigarette itself soon finds that he has weak eyes. It makes the eyes look red and inflamed. The smoke of the cigarette rises and goes into the eyes making them very sore. A man's eyesight would be much better if he did not use the cigarette.

The stomach digestion is sometimes ruined by the cigarette. The smoking of any kind of tobacco in any form will make people look sick and unwell.

Often because of cigarettes the teeth become coated and then they decay. Many nerve troubles are caused by this bad habit. Smoking weakens the system so smokers are made more apt to contract contagious diseases, and makes them unable to put up a hard fight against severe illness.

Therefore let us try to banish this cigarette smoking.

Ten thousand dollars in cash was secured by robbers who early Monday morning over the safe of the Bank of Hamilton branch at Killarney, Man., and escaped by motor car with more than three hours' start over the pursuit, according to a Winnipeg dispatch.

ALBERTA MINERS WORK AGAIN WITH 15 P.C. DECREASE

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—The signing of an agreement between the Western Coal Operators' association and the miners of District 18, Alberta, to return to work on the basis of a 15 per cent below 1921 rates, with certain conditions, is confirmed in a message received by the federal department of labor. The Hillcrest Collieries, not members of the association, have accepted an agreement in the same terms and conferences are proceeding between other operators in Alberta and eastern British Columbia who are also outside of the association, which are expected to lead to a similar settlement. The signing of these agreements, which are to be ratified by the men under stated conditions, will lead to a resumption of work in the Alberta fields, which have been idle since April 1st.

During the visit to Alberta of Hon. James M. Curran, minister of labor, the minister got into close touch with the parties to the dispute, and he was largely responsible in having certain proposals placed before the men by the operators on August 17.

The agreement now signed is subject to certain clauses of these proposals.

The Alberta miners are to be in the same relative position, as to day and contract rates, as the miners in the Central competitive field in the United States. There, new agreements are being negotiated by the men's executives, the men having returned on the 1921 rates subject to these new agreements.

If the new agreements embrace an increase over the 1921 rates as to day and contract rates, the Alberta miners will be placed in the same relative position, when 75 per cent of the union miners in that field shall have ratified the new agreement reached.

The proposals of August 17, it is understood, called for ratification by eighty per cent of the union personnel before any change should affect the Alberta miners.

The decision as to when and to what extent such agreements in the United States field will have been ratified by the men is left to Hon. James M. Curran, who is already receiving telegrams from the west as to conditions across the border.

News of the signing of the agreement by the Hillcrest Collieries and their employees was received by the department from one of its officers in the coal field. This agreement was signed on Thursday, it is stated, and with the present conference with other outside companies it is expected to lead to a 100 per cent resumption of coal mining throughout the western field and to go far towards restoring the fuel situation of the Great Lakes.

Brinkler, of Millet, Alberta, familiarly known to many in Victoria as Nurse Hall. It being the anniversary of her wedding day, music, singing and contests helped to make a very pleasant evening. Refreshments were served at the close, after which the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem brought a very happy gathering to a close.

About twenty guests were present to greet Mrs. Brinkler. The rooms were beautifully decorated with flowers sent by friends of Mrs. Brinkler—Victoria Colonist.

BRIGHTVIEW

Mrs. Oliver and Miss Alice Olsen of Seattle, Wash., who have been visiting with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Olsen, returned last Saturday.

During the recent electrical disturbance Mr. Lewis Olsen had the misfortune have a yearling steer struck by lightning.

We understand that three of the young ladies of the district are to go to Canmore this week to undergo musical instruction. Their names are Misses A. Goodhand, F. M. Stevens and R. Weil.

A surprise party of young people visited the Brightview Baptist parsonage on Monday evening at the residence of the departure of Miss M. E. Faulkner for Lethbridge. Some fifty young people of both sexes gathered and played games until midnight when a plentiful of welcome lunch was served.

A presentation of a gold ring and a sum of money was made to the involuntary hostess, and the party broke up by singing "Auld Lang Syne" and "She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Mrs. W. Westcott left on Tuesday for Lethbridge accompanied by Miss M. E. Faulkner.

The Movie and The Rockies

WHILE acting as special investigator for the Canadian Government, James Oliver Curwood became enamoured of Nature's wonderland in the Canadian Rocky mountains and made it the scene of many of his stories. "The Valley of Silent Men," that little Eden of the North, over which three snow-capped, sentinel mountains keep perpetual ward, was no myth. Mr. Curwood simply claimed it by romance's right, and blazed the way to it over the trail taken by his heroine, the little Canadiane, Marjorie, and the gallant Corporal James Kent of the Royal Mounted Police.

But with all his skill as a word-painter, Mr. Curwood could only indicate the natural beauties of this Paradise. Even the "still" camera and the painter's canvas can capture only isolated bits of natural beauty which seem so remote that the spectator can hardly realize their truth. But now the motion pictures have followed Mr. Curwood's trail, and in filming "The Valley of Silent Men" amidst the very scenes which the author described in his thrilling romances, will bring home to millions of screen devotees the natural wonders of the Canadian Pacific Rockies.

Cosmopolitan Productions on acquiring the motion-picture rights to "The Valley of Silent Men," sent a company up into the mountains to make a survey of the scene which they camped and took pictures about Banff and Lake Louise, and the camera caught that miracle of nature—the coming of spring in the snowy wilderness. Frank Borzage, celebrated as the director of "Hallelujah" and other successful Cosmopolitan productions, captained the company—which was headed by Miss Alma Rubens, as the heroine, and Lew Cody, as the gallant, valiant corporal of the Royal Mounted, Edward Peck, the veteran guide, piloted the daring picture people through dangerous passes, while in dians of the Stoney tribe under an excellent moving-picture of the Chief John Powderface, were enlisted by the company; both as it took a long time to find just the right place in which to film this thrilling story. In the first place the scenery had to conform to the author's description, and after that it had to be far and away out of the run of ordinary mountain scenery. It had to be on a scale of grandeur and interest that would help make the film remarkable. Then too, it had to be accessible. The Canadian Pacific Rockies in the vicinity of Banff and Lake Louise filled all these requirements, and further provided the very best possible accommodation for the members of the company at the Banff Springs Hotel, and the Lake Louise Chateau, both in the very close distance of the wonderful scenes photographed in the making of this film.

SCIENCE AND THE ATOMPUNCH SUGGESTS POSSIBILITIES
ONE METHOD OF SETTLING
IRISH QUESTION

I never did like scientists and, day by day I grow to like them less. It is their own fault. They began it. They are always finding out unpleasant things about me. They have insulted me in my person, in my thoughts,
and in my habits.

They have suggested that I am the lineal descendant of a herd of primeval apes, with tails and hair all over, whereas in truth I come of a most proper stock and am highly respected.

They have told me that I am wrong in thinking that the sun moves round the earth. But I know better. I have watched it. They have told me that my glands are poor in vitamins and that my glands need reinforcement and that when I die I shall become a phosphate. But I know that the food which I eat is good food and that my glands feel alright from inside and that I shall never die.

And now in their latest outrage they surpass themselves. They propose to explode an atom by means of an electric current. On the face of it the project seems innocent enough. I admit the atom, I am told, is quite a small thing—smaller than a pin's head probably—and one might think that, provided the atom is their own and they have a license for exploding, no exception could be taken to their enterprise.

But this is not all. They suggest that when the atom is exploded the whole world may burst into flame and scatter hydrogen. Just imagine the inconvenience this would cause.

I might be sitting one evening in the Cafe des Bon Mots in Compa-street with Cynthia by my side. I might have tickets in my pocket for a theatre—tickets bought and paid for.
I turn to Cynthia.

"Darling," I tell her, "you have the most beautiful eyes in the world and I'm never going to leave you."

"(Do you think it is quite ready?"
she asks me in Wisconsin or Massachusetts, or wherever the beauty experiment is held. "Don't you think we might put another shilling in the meter, just to make sure? We don't want to seem mean over a job like this.")

"Never!" I swear solemnly, raising my glass.

And then the professor in Wisconsin touches a button and Cynthia and I burst into gaseous flames and mingle in a most undignified manner. And the theatre tickets are wasted. And I lose my liquor and Cynthia is simply furious with me for allowing it, and everything is hot and uncomfortable for ever and ever.

And all this happens just to amuse
a few scientists!

But I fancy that the most offensive feature of the project is the humiliating idea which it suggests. To think that Lord Beaverbrook and I and all the lords and beasts and all the trees and the Albert Memorial and the mountains and the low ground about Willesden Junction—to think that all these things should go to the making of only one star. It is ridiculous.
To think that in twenty thousand years time, on some far distant planet, an inhabitant may raise his head from his morning paper and crane across to his wife: "See they've discovered a new star. Wish they'd set on with the drainage system instead of mucking about with stars.
Stars! What in thunder is the good of stars anyway?"

But there is one picture which I like to conjure up of that dread moment when the earth shall be consumed, in Fleet street there sits a man who will know all about it just one second before it happens. He will snatch a crisp of paper in feverish haste and,
just as the first few thermus of hydrogen are issuing from his feet he will scribble with his shivering hand
the final headline in this world:—
"The Irish Question Settled At Last!"

Bards And Farmers

To the hard serenely singing. I remarked, "You're lazing there, while the husbandmen are bringing corn and turnips to the fair. Oh, the farmers raise their squashes, build the barn and crib and byre, while the poet only slashes tinhorn music from the lyre. And the farmers feed the masses, and they make the world go round, but the poet, as he passes, scurries death in empty sonnets." Said the bard, "The busy granger as he tolls from day to day, as he fills the yawning manger with the home grown brands of hay, quotes the message of the singers, quotes the poet's cheer-up dope, thinking that the bards are diggers, giving courage, pep and hope.
Let us then be up and doing," quotes
the farmer, as he plows, "still achieving, still pursuing, feeling hope and milking cows. And the poet's words inspire him as he labors all day long and I fear you'd only tire him if you rubbed him of his song. Oh, we work in divers manners, as the bright days come and go; some are born to carry banners, some are born to shovel snow; and no man should view his neighbors with a sneering sort of sniff, saying, "Useless are your labors—why not tumble off the earth?"
—Walt Mason.

GREAT BRITAIN WILL PAY WAR DEBTS TO
THE STATES IN FULL

The debate in the English house of commons on "inter alia" debts and German reparations which had been expected would bring out further interesting facts respecting the recent action of the Earl of Balfour on the subject and Great Britain's future political policy on the whole question of international relations, proved disappointing.

During the five hours of debate
there was constant iteration of Great Britain's intention to repay her debt to the United States, but no pains were spared to make clearly apparent Great Britain's sacrifices in the war,
her generous post armistice attitude
and her staggering burdens of taxation.

Sir Robert Horne, chancellor of the exchequer, and Great Britain had no intention of suggesting any alteration of her financial obligations to the United States, that the government recognized to the full Great Britain's obligations to pay the debt and we don't mean in any shape or form to evade that obligation.

Sir Robert pointed out that the British war debt was greater than that of any other nation, amounting to $7,705,000,000 pounds, compared with $147,000,000 for the United States and $340,000,000 for France. The British debt was $95 per head of the population, the French $710, and the United States $245, he showed, and in these circumstances it was impossible to make the British taxpayer also shoulder the payment of the war debts.

"It only the nations which fought side by side during the war would be willing to regard their subscriptions to the war as contributed to the common success," he continued, "we might have been able to rid the world of many causes of irritation and plant in the heart of humanity a new and inspiring hope."

Mr. Asquith was mild approbation from one side of the house by declaring the Balfour note impolitic and unfortunate, but said he hoped subsequent events would prove the contrary. Laughter greeted his statement that the United States knew Great Britain was dealing in paper money when she liquidated the enormous expense of Europe's obligations.

Mr. Asquith expressed misgivings
as to the wisdom of Lord Balfour's note and strongly advocated, resulting the French and other allied war debts to England as not only politic but good business. He expressed the opinion that the United States debt ought to be paid quite distinct from European matters and deprecated any question that the United States was under any obligation moral or even sentimental, to waive its debts.

GOVERNMENT TO CUT BONUS PAID
CIVIL SERVANTS

Modification of the amount of bonus paid during the war has been one of the civil service of Alberta is being considered by the government and notifications to this effect have been sent out. The bonus was put on during the war time to meet added cost of living and now that the cost of living is on the decline and salaries all over are being cut to that schedule, the government is looking into the advisability of dropping the whole or part of the bonus.

Under the legislation by which the bonus was brought into effect, the government has the right to cut it off at any time without notice and the present idea is to reduce the bonus beginning September 1.

The matter is under consideration by the civil service commission and will be settled shortly.

than for some time past and there is little more moving in the retail, but extreme caution is apparent, awaiting crop results.

Collections, though still slow, seem to be somewhat better than anticipated.

Crop conditions are being watched carefully, more especially as a great many points have lately had a good deal of rain, which has delayed harvesting.

With fair weather from this on, an average crop seems assured.

HUSBAND DIDN'T DARE
LEAVE HER ALONE
HER HEART WAS SO BAD

Those feelings of faintness, those distressing spells, and the all-gone sinking sensation which come on from time to time indicate a weakened condition of the heart and a disordered state of the nerves.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have no equal as a remedy to strengthen the heart, invigorate the nerves, and build up the run down system.

Mrs. C. Vaahorn, Redville, Alta., writes:—"About a year ago I had heart trouble. My husband didn't dare leave me alone, and often had to stay up at night with me. I would just feel kind of faint, and my heart would seem to stop beating. I would just faint away, and it would sometimes be an hour or so before they could bring me back to life. Someone told me about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so I got three boxes. I took them and felt much better, so continued all winter, and now I never feel any such faintness, and I am able to do all the work I want to do."

VERY CONSTIPATED
FOR SIX MONTHS

Unless one has a free action of the bowels, at least once a day, constipation is sure to cause, then in the wake of the constipation comes sick headache, bilious headache, heartburn, constipation, foul breath, sour stomach, piles, and many forms of liver complaint.

Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills will regulate the flow of bile and properly the bowels, thus making them active and regular, and removing the constipation and all its allied troubles.

Mrs. B. C. Hunt, Port George, N. S., writes:—“I have been troubled by being badly constipated for the last six months. My tongue has been so terribly coated, so much so, that it made my breath bad. I have been talking to a friend about it, and she advised me to use Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills, which I did, and now I am perfectly well. My tongue is as smooth as it was before I got that way and I owe it all to your Pills of which I only used two vials.”

Mr. Pevely's Car

(By Anna Brownell Dunaway)
“Why don't you drink your coffee while it's hot, pa?” inquired Mrs. Pevely. “You're letting it get stone cold.”

With a start Mr. Pevely bestrided himself and the coffee. “Ma,” he burst out, lolling in three tablecloths full of sugar recklessly. “I have a chance to buy a car.”

“Now, fra—”
“But Nan and Elsie and the twins—Bulah and Beva—precipitated themselves upon their father in wild fits of light. “A car!” they cried. “Oh, dad!”

“I thought I'd sleep on it, ma, before I told you,” Mr. Pevely went on quickly. “It's a bargain if ever there was one. It belongs to a painter and paper hanger and he bought a new one. It's a Maryland touring car, and it's in good running order. Not a thing's the matter with it, but a little kick in the engine. He wanted a hundred and thirty-five dollars, but he knocked off ten for quick sale. It's not a bad looking at all. What say, ma?”

“I didn't say anything at all,” replied Mrs. Pevely, meaning, “Of all the nonsense, owning a car when we have scarcely a roof over our heads! You know how bad I want a home, fra Pevely!”

“And you got a home,” Mrs. Pevely assured her. “I've always wanted a car, and here I got one—”

“Not you,” interposed his wife grimly.

“Mark my words, ma, you'll get your home. If a body wants anything bad enough, they'll get it. A Liberty and that seventy-five dollars you have saved will buy the car. And then the next thing will be a home.”

“We ought to buy a home first,” objected Mrs. Pevely. “Besides it takes a long time to keep a car.”

“This one won't take nothing scarcely,” Mr. Pevely confessed confidently and enthusiastically. “It will be the making of us,” he declared. “Why, think of the things we can do, ma! We'll take fishing trips along the river. We'll go sun-bathing every Saturday afternoon. We'll carry our supper to the park and just live in the open. We'll get brim and heart—”

“I'm hungry enough now,” said Mrs. Pevely, but it was evident that she was weakening.

“Look at the children—nothing but smiles!” Mr. Pevely added quickly. “Cooped up here in the city that a way, Ma, it's a doctor's prescription and a vacation and a holiday rolled into one. The kids will take it!”

“We'll drive up to Wellsville and see Cousin Orville Porter—start some Saturday afternoon—”

“Hurrah! Hurrah!” shouted the twins and Elsie.

The riotous joy of the younger children turned the scales in favor of buying the car. Though Mrs. Pevely was dubious, she yielded.

That evening a “people of the Street” were treated to the unusual sight of the Pevelys' driving off in splendor in a big red touring car. Even Mrs. Pevely nodding in the direction of envious neighbors, felt an air of great wisdom proved and prided in the car.

“What do you think of her?” inquired of Pevely.

“Cost you one hundred and fifty dollars to get her overhauled?”

“How much do I have to pay for the battery?” Pevely asked hastily.

“Two dollars,” replied the mechanic. Mr. Pevely paid the money, and after the exchange they drove on in silence.

“A hundred and fifty, did he say?” Mrs. Pevely asked at length.

“Those garage men,” declared Mr. Pevely indignantly. “Are all alike; they're robbers. One will tell you one thing and the next just the opposite. That's all he knows about it.”

“Though Pevely's confidence in his car was still unshaken, he drove home after he had only gone a few blocks. “I don't like to drive around after dark,” he explained.

On the following Sunday afternoon they drove out again; the car purring along in a well behaved manner, and Mr. Pevely was almost maddened in his pride. “The best machine ever,” he boasted.

But at that moment a right hand tire collapsed. Mr. Pevely labored perspiringly in the hot dusty road, and Nan stood by with the vulcanizing outfit. They had just needed the tire when a sudden shower came. The rain beat fiercely against the car and thoroughly soaked Mrs. Pevely.

best volleys which she had donned especially for the people of Court Street. Elsie and the twins wrapped themself in newspapers and lay down in the bottom of the car.

“What are you going to do?” demanded Mrs. Pevely tartly.

“We'll wait awhile,” Mr. Pevely replied with his usual optimism. “And when the water runs out she'll start.”

They waited for an hour, at the expiration of which Mrs. Pevely and Elsie went to get help. They splashed through dark and muddy alleys and finally found a man who agreed to tow the car. But on their way back they spilled it coming toward them; another car was towing it, and the twins were hanging over the sides.

“She's going, ma!” they cried as the car passed their mother.

Mrs. Pevely could only apologize to the man she had routed out; but she and Elsie hurried home. They counted the steps and bedraggled she could not help but overhear the remarks from the next porch:

“Who on earth is that?”

“It's that stuck-up piece next door that owns a car. I loved they'd come home walking—”

Mrs. Pevely's ire increased as her neighbors laughed derisively. She went into the house to find Mr. Pevely and the children round a pitcher of ice water.

“We got a fellow that happened along to tow us in,” Mr. Pevely remarked cheerfully. “Nice sort of a bird; only cost me a dollar.”

“We've got so many of them to throw to the birds,” Mrs. Pevely said with bitter sarcasm, taking off the young or children's wet clothing.

“Accidents will happen, ma; we'll live and learn. The car's in good running order—”

They did not drive out again for a week.

Mr. Pevely silenced the clamor of the twins by saying that they must consider the expense of gasoline. “We'll picnic on the river,” he assured them, “come Saturday afternoon.”

On the appointed day they set out with bulging baskets. It was a gay party. Mrs. Pevely decided not to be a wet blanket; the children's delight was contagious.

“She's doing fine,” Mr. Pevely said enthusiastically as they pursued along one of the business streets.

“Get there in time to catch a mess of fish for supper.”

But he spoke too soon; a car whirled by so suddenly as to startle him into installing the engine. Climbing out, he tried again and again to crank it, while the traffic policeman glared at him and speeding automobiles went out of the way to get past him. Mr. Pevely sought the aid of a garage man.

“We might as well cut our supper here,” observed Mrs. Pevely with cheerfulness. “It seems a garage as far as we ever get.”

“What seems to be the trouble?” Pevely inquired anxiously.

“Something wrong with your generator. It runs down your battery. You ought to find out the trouble.”

“How much would it cost?” ventured Pevely.

“Oh, anywhere from five to fifty dollars,” the fellow said casually.

“Well, tow us in,” said Pevely.

After the car had been towed for a few yards the engine started to go of its own accord. Mr. Pevely was so overjoyed that he laughed and joked as he paid the man a dollar for his services. “Nothing wrong with that car but a kick in the engine,” he said.

“Good running order, can't believe half they tell you. But I wouldn't climb no hills with that generator. We had better cut at home.”

A loud clamor rose from the younger children. “You said we should go to the river—”

“So I did, and so you shall.” Mr. Pevely mopped his perspiring brow. “Next Monday's the Fourth of July. What say to an all day picnic on the Meramec and to taking along Uncle Joe and Aunt Em. We'll have the time of our lives. I'll get a man who knows something to look this generator.”

“Don't stop at the generator,” said Mrs. Pevely.

the tenth time.

“Let us live in hope,” Mr. Pevely replied smiling. “That was the Pevely creed, living in hope, and it had earned them the nickname in the neighborhood of the ‘happy-go-lucky Pevelys.’”

Notwithstanding her labors on the preceding day, Mrs. Pevely rose before the others on Monday morning and baked blueberry turnovers. When the lunch was finally ready, no basket would hold it. Mr. Pevely got a big packing box. The twins packed combs and towels and Elsie tucked in a box of talcum powder. Practical Nan wrapped up a cask of ice and hunted for nicked glasses and old spoons.

At last with Bulah and Beva up on the packing box and an old three-legged stool, to make room for Uncle Joe and Aunt Em, the Pevelys set forth. The car was on its best behavior and with a flourish drove in front of Uncle Joe's store. Aunt Em stout and smiling, settled herself with a bulging basket on her knees.

“Great day in the morning,” boomed Uncle Joe heartily, climbing in beside Mr. Pevely. “What did you have to pay for the car, fra?”

pretty well; even the leaking valve behaved well. Mr. Pevely smiled; but within three blocks of Uncle Joe's house they came to a sudden standstill.

“We'll walk those three blocks,” said Aunt Em, shortly. “A body's better hobbles on one foot than ride in a car like this.”

“There's a garage across the street just wait until I get a man,” said Mr. Pevely.

But Aunt Em was firm, and Mr. Pevely and Uncle Joe half-led, half-carried, her to her home.

Then Pevely sought the aid of a youthful garage man.

“Carburetor,” said the boy, briefly. “Is there any part to that car that hasn't been named yet?” Mrs. Pevely inquired, with fine sarcasm.

“We'll risk getting home with the old one,” Mr. Pevely decided.

With much cranking they finally got started. “What does he know about an infant like that?” exclaimed Pevely.

“Can't we stop at a park and eat?” “Think of all the lunch.”

“Keep still!” cried Mr. Pevely. “She's not going any too well. Liable to stop on any minute. Whoo—”

There was a fearful crash, and Pevely found himself in the middle of a Maryland touring car. Finally came to a locked round dangle.

“Hurt much?” inquired a strange voice.

“I feel sort of light headed. Who's that yelling?”

The stranger helped Mr. Pevely slowly along the road to where the car lay, a splintered wreck. The twins were screaming, and Nan, Elsie and Mrs. Pevely were extricating themselves from the wreckage. A crowd was gathering.

“I guess you're the only one that's hurt, and you're only shaken up,” said the stranger. “It's nothing but a miracle. You see, I ran into you as you swerved round that turn. He led Mr. Pevely aside and spoke briskly. “Let's get this business over before we're all taken to the police station. I'm in a great hurry; I'll settle with you out of court.” He whipped out a bill book. “Let's see, your car's a wreck. What make? Oh, I see, it's a Maryland touring car. What's the damage?”

Mr. Pevely swallowed hard. “She was in good running order,” he asserted, slowly. “Not a thing wrong with her but—a kick in the engine.”

“I see. Could you replace it for us? Are cheap now—shall we say five hundred?”

Mr. Pevely was speechless.

“If that suits you,” the stranger pooled off ten yellow bills from a huge roll and then handed Mr. Pevely a paper on which he had scribbled hastily. “Sign here,” he said. “It's a statement that you won't take my number and prosecute. Thanks!”

Mr. Pevely was speechless.

so long!” And climbing into his long grey touring car he was gone like a shot.

Mr. Pevely gazed after him blankly. “We're all here,” announced Mrs. Pevely, who had counted her family for the fifth time. “Thank goodness, we've ridden our last in that car. When I think—”

Mr. Pevely held up the bills gleefully. “Five hundred's not bad for the car, ma, what? I know I was getting a bargain. What did I tell you about getting a home? Here's the final installment—”

“Dad!” cried the younger Pevelys in a jubilant chorus.

Mr. Pevely, beaming, shouldered the box of food and led the way to the nearest street car. “Plumb gone smashed,” said a car with a regretful look at the wreck. “And a real car, too!”

“In good running order,” added Mrs. Pevely, not without a touch of irony.

“I Will Leave My Family Well Provided For”

To this—one of the hardest answers to overcome—there is the following reply, which hits the nail on the head.

Truly enough, you may leave them your money, your lands, your bonds and stocks, but you cannot bequeath them your good judgment, your business acumen your knowledge of investments, or your long years of experience, enabling them to conserve safely and manage the estate which will come day by day.

And remember, it is an income that they will need, not an estate.

Your better judgment will therefore prompt you to leave to your family at least a part of their heritage in the form of a life income policy.

Give Up Worrying

Dr. Edwin L. Ash, lecturing at the Institute of Hygiene, said worry was responsible for a great deal of nervous breakdown and organic illness.

"Worry about diseases," he said, "is likely to produce them, chiefly by lowering the general vitality of the body and diminishing its resistance to germs."

Undue exaltation of the human self was responsible for many small worries, which wear out health and occasion much distress, all of which could be got rid of by a little simple philosophy.

For the conqueror's healthy man or woman the conquest of worry depended on the training of the mind, and its prevention by the maintenance of ordinary health, aided by greater attention to mental hygiene. Dr. Ash defined worry as "a disorganization of mind control resulting in successive movements of thoughts backwards and forwards without finality and without reasonable conclusion."

"Once anyone is caught upon a 'worry wheel,' there is only one thing to do—make a complete break in daily routine and a complete change in life. It is the only way to prevent bad becoming worse, and to break the vicious circle."

It was, however, one of the commonest as well as the saddest experiences of the consulting room that men and women clearly caught by worry found themselves unable to take the only advice that could contain them.

The reasons were that ill-health had weakened the powers of decision, and that the worry was so intense and the possibilities of disaster appeared so great that the victim dared not leave his affairs to subordinates.

This last attitude of mind was probably aggravated by a false sense of the importance of the ego.

The great practical point was that worry could be understood psychologically, and attacked and eliminated scientifically. No one should sit

INDIAN HIRES
WHITE HELP TO HARVEST CROP

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—"The poor Indian," is having a little of own back on the western reservations this year, due to the splendid crops in Saskatchewan. On one of the reserves visited by Mr. Stewart, minister of the interior, during the past couple of weeks, the minister found the Indians who had splendid crops that one of them was hiring white harvest labor from the east to help him save the crop. This rather unusual state of affairs was creating some amusement in the neighborhood of the reservation, which is in the File Hills section of Saskatchewan.

Fined For Selling Bad Eggs

One of the first prosecutions under the provisions of the act governing the purchase and sale of eggs was dealt with at Vegreville on Thursday, when a merchant of that town, Nick Koryluk, was convicted and fined on the charge of offering for sale eggs which were calculated to be unfit for human consumption.

The complaint was laid by J. Winsor, provincial egg inspector, and the man was brought before Magistrate McIntyre, in the provincial court, and a conviction registered against him after his plea of guilty. He was fined $5 and the costs of the court.

A rigid inspection is now being made by the provincial authorities of all eggs offered for sale whether in the regular store or on the open market, and vendors are reminded of the necessity of seeing that their commodities are fresh and comply with the provincial laws.

down under worry; everyone should attend to the part of St. George and desert the rest of the world.

"It was not a question of not worrying," but of so adjusting the mind that worry was so demonstrated to be an illusion."

LITTLE DANGER OF
A COAL SHORTAGE
ON THE PRAIRIES

Calgary, Aug. 28.—Adequate coal supplies will be available to fill the prairie demand this winter, if proper buying methods are observed, distributors and operators of Alberta coal asserted last night. If the railways cooperate with the necessary transportation, which they are likely to do there will be plenty of coal for domestic purposes in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba this winter.

"I see no reason why there should be shortage this winter if the public and the dealers use 'horse-sense' said Archibald E. Wilson, head of one of the leading Calgary coal distributing houses, which sends coal all over the prairies.

Looking Backward
FROM THE TIMES' FILES

(August 28, 1902)

Last Saturday evening a thunder storm, accompanied by hail, passed over the Angus-Ridge district and as a result some of the grain was driven completely into the ground, and left a few farmers without even feed. Several joyful bonfire parties were held the past week. Among them was one by Mrs. Alf Ellis. Unfortunately the wind was too strong and the fire had to be damped, but a good time was spent. The rappers sang all the popular songs, including "K-K-Kiss Me Again." On Thursday the crowd all gathered at Ed. Williamson's fire and enjoyed puns and kisses. The Prediction

That Came True

At a recent luncheon in New York of the Catholic Actors' Guild, the Rev. John Talbot Smith told a story which had an especial appeal for his audience, most of whom were communicants of the same faith of which he is a distinguished clergyman.

Father Smith said that a young woman in the confessional confided that she was afraid she had been spending some of her money foolishly.

"Spending your money foolishly calls for penance," said the priest sternly. "How have you been spending yours?"

"Well, father, I went to a fortune teller," admitted the penitent.

"Oh, ho, so you went to a fortune teller, eh? Well, that's wrong to begin with. In the first place, professional fortune tellers are most of them frauds, and in the second place they pretend to deal with the supernatural. And what did you do for this fortune teller?"

"I gave him $2 father."

"Worse and worse—wasting your hard earned wages on a faker. Am I in exchange for your $2 what did he do for you?"

"He told me a pack of lies, father, about my past and future."

"What did he say about your past?"

"He said, father, that I should be going on a long, hard journey."

"Well, said the priest, reflectively, 'He may have lied to you about your past, but when he predicted that you would be going on a long hard journey, he was not far wrong, after all. You'll do the statists of the Cross, twelve times.'"
